Nonprofit Lecture Series

The Nonprofit Lecture Series began in February with a great response from the American Humanics students. Eric Gray from the American Lung Association presented “Marketing Your Mission” and gave students useful information regarding fundraising in the nonprofit sector. Pamela Mann from the Community Service Center presented “Framework for Understanding Poverty.” This interactive workshop gave students a new way of thinking about poverty and the issues associated with it. Dr. Ann Manley from the Dr. Phillips Foundation will be our next featured speaker on March 22nd, and Dave Krepcho with Second Harvest Food Bank will speak on April 12th. The Lecture Series is open to anyone who wishes to attend. Please contact the AH Office for more information.

Night at the Alley Bowling Tournament

American Humanics Student Association along with the collegiate chapter of Association of Fundraising Professionals are planning a bowling tournament fundraiser on April 5th. The goal of this event is not only to raise funds for student travel to national conferences, but also to provide an opportunity for students to network with nonprofit professionals and to gain experience in planning and executing a fundraising event. For registration or sponsorship information, please contact the AH Office.

AH Alumni Association

We are in the planning stages of forming the AH Alumni Association of Central Florida. If you are a graduate with a certificate or minor in American Humanics and want to join, please contact the AH Office.

Graduate Spotlight: Angela Knowlton

Angie Knowlton is a 2004 graduate of the American Humanics minor program. She is currently the grant writer for the Howard Phillips Center for Children & Families. When asked how American Humanics helped prepare her for a career in the nonprofit sector, Angie said, “The program gave me direction in helping me decide what I wanted to do. The program provided me with a broad overview of the sector, and through this I learned about grant writing. My internship helped me, too. I interned with Emergency Management Learning and Resource Center where I wrote grants and helped the Development Director on a capital campaign.” Angie believes that the AH program and her internship gave her valuable hands-on experience and insight into what to expect as a nonprofit professional. Angie also received a masters degree in Public Administration from UCF in 2006.
